

Equity Leadership in Action

Education resource equity is what we need to make sure that school unlocks every child's power to live a life of their choosing—and that race and family income no longer predict a student's life trajectory.

You are invited to join us for a day of exploring the 10 Dimensions of Resource Equity and strengthen your understanding of systems alignment and systems change. When schools, systems, and communities deeply understand students' most pressing needs and mobilize the right amount and combination of resources in response, every student can receive a high-quality education that unlocks their power to live a life of their choosing.

In this session we will:

- Explore a vision for what each dimension should look like
- Discuss research-backed reasons for why each dimension matters
- Engage in key questions to consider for your school system
- Share dimensions and resources to support educational equity at the school level

This event is open to leaders across the Northwest and Northeast regions of the state. It is being facilitated by RCE staff members from both regional centers. We hope this will provide opportunities to meet and hear from colleagues from across northern Minnesota.
